

It all added up to a great day

Dunedin's first maths craft day, yesterday at the Atrium level at Otago Museum, attracted a full house and all the tables were used by dozens of participants.

Bathgate Park School pupil Luka Radovanovich (right, 9) puts the last pieces in a "Menger sponge" while Luke Easterbrook, of Dunedin, helps his nephew Charlie McCormack (7) and niece Leila McCormack (10), both of Waitati, with their project.

The free, day-long maths celebrations included craft creation stations, looking at knitting a mathematical knot, building a fractal sculpture or folding an origami octahedron, plus public talks by several mathematician crafters.

PHOTO: LINDA ROBERTSON